ANNOUNCEMENT.

Assistant Attorney General W. H. Cannon has given an opinion barring from the mails any publications advertising contests in which any kind of prizes are offered. This is a ruling that shuts out a further publication of the advertisements containing the pictures of Hopkinsville business men in the Kentuckian, which were to appear to-day. We have no desire to come in conflict with the postal laws and further publication will be made in a form not to be circulated through the mails. Additional information may be obtained by inquiry at this office.

The Indiana Progressives have nominated former Senator Albert J. Beveridge as their candidate for the Senate.

Members of the committee of insurance men in Louisville for the meeting yesterday for an effort to solve the insurance trouble in Kentucky, said they had no solution to offer.

In charging the Muhlenberg county grand jury, Circuit Judge John S. Rhea laid emphasis on the depredations of a certain element, saying that threats had been made against public officials.

The Mexican navy consists of five gunboats, the Bravo, Morales, Tampico, Vera Cruz and Zaragoza. There also are two armed transports. Unless the rebels come to Huerta's aid it is doubtful whether he could raise an army of 50,000.

Mexican time is two hours and 36 minutes behind Hopkinsville time, and Washington, D. C., time is one hour behind our time. For instance when it is 1 p. m. in Mexico City, it is 3:36 in Hopkinsville, and 2:36 in Washington, D. C. This will help you in keeping the news up to the minute in mind.

Secretary Garrison sent an ultimatum to Gov. Blease, of South Carolina, saying that unless he withdrew his remarks about the soldiers and invited the national encampment to be held at the Isle of Palms, by Monday morning, it would be held in some other state. Of course Gov. Blease refused to apologize and Charleston loses the encampment.

UNDERWOOD
FOR SENATESecond Gubernatorial Primary
Between Comer and Henderson May 11.

Montgomery, Ala., April 21.—Oscar Underwood was declared the nominee of the Democratic party for United States Senator from Alabama this afternoon by the State Democratic Committee. An official canvass of the returns showed that Mr. Underwood received a majority of 34,732 votes over Congressman Richmond P. Hobson, the former's vote being 89,470.

B. B. Comer's official plurality over Charles Henderson for Governor is 11,790, and the committee provided for a second primary May 11 to nominate a Governor as well as to run off three other races for State offices.

Capt. Frank S. White, of Birmingham, was declared the nominee for short-term Federal Senator to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnson. The committee canvassed the vote for all offices and announced the results.

The majority plan which was previously adopted for election to membership on the State Committee made several run off necessary in the next primary election.

Mr. Clarence E. Burbridge, of Dallas, Texas, is here on a visit to his mother, Mrs. S. H. Burbridge, who continues very ill.

Vera Cruz, April 22.—Vera Cruz is in the hands of forces from the United States warships, but the occupation of the port yesterday was not accomplished without the loss of American lives.

Four Americans, bluejackets and marines, were killed by the fire of the Mexican soldiers, and twenty wounded. The Mexican loss is not known, but it is believed to have been heavy.

The water front, the custom house and all important piers, including those under the terminal works from which extend the railroads to the capital, have been occupied. All the territory around the American consulate is strongly patrolled, and detachments hold other sections of the city.

The Mexican commander, Gen. Gustavo Maas, offered a stubborn resistance to the American advance, and for hours there was fighting in the streets. Toward nightfall it was reported that the main body of the federal garrison was in retreat to westward.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the United States warships, pre-faced his occupation of the fort by a demand, through the American consul, W. W. Canada, for its surrender. Gen. Maas promptly declined and ten whaleboats were sent off from the side of the transport Prairie, loaded with marines.

STILL FIGHTING AT MONTEREY

Train Load of Wounded Rebels
En Route to Matamoras.

Brownsville, Tex., April 22.—Fighting between the rebels and the Federals continues in Monterey, according to a message received in Matamoras from Gen. Pablo Gonzalez, the Constitutionalist commander. A trainload of wounded rebel soldiers is due at Matamoras late to-day.

Mr. John B. Galbreath was in the city yesterday en route to Nashville, where he expects to engage in business.

These boats effected a landing and a few minutes later Capt. William H. Rush of the battleship Florida, who was in command of the operations ashore, brought his flag in.

Capt. Rush's men already had taken up their position. They numbered 150 bluejackets from the Florida, 390 marines from the Prairie and 65 marines from the Florida. Later these were augmented by a detachment from the Utah.

Soon the bluejackets and marines marched through the streets leading from the water front and along the railroad yards. Others proceeded to the American consulate, while still others were deployed along the approaches to Central Plaza, in which Gen. Maas had concentrated his men.

These maneuvers were effected without opposition, but suddenly Gen. Maas challenged the advance with the first shots—a volley fired from a point three blocks from the marines and two blocks south of the main plaza. There was a lull for ten minutes and then another brief exchange from the west end of Montesinos street, where a federal outpost was stationed.

At 12:30 o'clock the firing became general, and at 1 o'clock the guns of the transport Prairie went into action.

Prior to this a detachment of bluejackets from the Utah, holding the ground between the consulate and the water front, opened with two of their three-inch guns. The first shots from these pieces were directed against the ancient Benito Juarez tower, which once served as a light house. This was occupied by Mexican sharpshooters. Lieutenant-Commander Buchanan of the Florida ordered that it be destroyed. Five shots brought the old tower down.

After Gen. Maas had been driven from his position in Central Plaza, the Americans found themselves the object of fusillades from the tops of houses. It was learned that most of those engaged in this resistance were civilians.

SHIPS TAKE ON AMMUNITION

Virginia, Nebraska and Georgia
Prepared for Service.

Boston, April 22.—Activity at the Charlestown navy yard, which began yesterday with the receipt of orders to prepare the battleships Virginia, Nebraska and Georgia for service in Mexican waters, continued to-day.

The Georgia left dry dock and took on a quantity of ammunition. The Virginia also received a supply of ammunition after her bunkers had been filled with coal.

TEXAS REGIMENT READY.

Three Thousand Troops Available For Immediate Service.

Austin, Tex., April 22.—Three thousand men of the Texas National Guard are available for immediate service, according to announcement made by Frank Hutchings, Adjutant General. The State troops, organized as a re-enforced brigade, consist of three regiments of infantry, a battery of field artillery and a field hospital corps. The Adjutant General declares 2,000 more men could be put in the field within two days.

Mobilization plans were perfected several months ago at the direction of Gov. Colquitt.

ARTICLES FILED

For Incorporation of the Dixie
Telephone Co.

Articles of incorporation of the Dixie Telephone Co., were filed with the county clerk Tuesday. There are thirty-four stockholders, the list being headed by Mr. James Orten, who will act as president until the next regular election. The nature of the business is the maintenance of a system of telephone lines and exchanges in and around Crofton and the principal office or place of business will be the old James Orten residence.

FEDERALS SEEK COALITION

Laredo, Tex., April 22.—It was authoritatively reported here to-day that two Federal officers from the Nuevo Laredo garrison, bearing a flag of truce, went down the river yesterday to parley with rebel officers. Coalition of rebels and Federals against the United States was said to be their object.

Unconfirmed Rumor.

A rumor gained currency yesterday that Charge de Affairs Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American representative in Mexico, since the recall of Ambassador Wilson, had been assassinated in his home in Mexico City. No details were obtainable and the rumor could not be confirmed at the hour of going to press.

President Backed Up.

The senate at 3:21 this morning by a vote 72 to 13 passed the administration resolution, declaring that "the president is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends for the affronts and indignities committed against the United States," in Mexico.

To Light Trenton.

Within thirty days, Trenton expects to be lighted by electric lights. The plant and power will be furnished by the South Kentucky Power & Lighting Co., with headquarters at Hopkinsville, which now lights Pembroke, and is planning for many other physical connections with neighboring towns. The Trenton investment will represent about $8,000.

USING SPLIT LOG DRAG

Promoters of Good Pikes Will Urge Farmers to Employ
The Device.

MANUFACTURE IS SIMPLE.

Maintenance of Dirt Roads By
This Method Shown to Be Economical.

That simple and inexpensive instrument known as the "split-log drag" now adorns a pedestal. It is regarded as the most efficacious agency for the improvement of four-fifths of the roads of Illinois, and while the enthusiasm stirred by the observance of "Road Day" is still warm the promoters of good pikes will wage a campaign of education.

Their aim is to instruct the farmer who is to travel a muddy road to get to market that it would be to his lasting profit and comfort if he will occasionally hitch old Dobbin to the drag and smooth out the rough spots on the highway. Or, if the "old gray bonnet" stuff is passe, results quite as good can be accomplished by hitching the drag to the farmer's runabout or touring car. Anything to make it scrape along on the road to Dover.

Of about 95,000 miles of dirt roads in the state, only about 19,000 miles will be converted into hard pike under the Tice state road act, which leaves about 76,000 miles that need caring for in other ways. Hence the agitation.

The making of a good road drag is a simple matter; anyone who can use a hammer without mashing his thumb can fabricate one. The first road drag was made out of an old pump stock and a dry butternut post, with some old knot-holed boards nailed across them. There was nothing prepossessing about it, but it did the business.

As William G. Edens, President of the Illinois Highway Improvement Association and the Associated Roads Organizations of Chicago and Cook County, to give him his full title, remarked the other day:

"The man who knocked together that first road drag did more to help the farmer than the man who discovered alfalfa and invented the silo."

That sounds a bit exaggerated, perhaps, but think it over. The road drag makes it possible for the farmer to reduce his transportation bill at a slight expenditure of time and labor, and the transportation tax is one of the largest we Americans have to shoulder. Just think of it; it costs the American farmer on an average of 25 cents per ton-mile to get his products from the farm to market, when it should cost him only about a dime, if our average road were as good as the average road of England, France or Germany.

There are little available data on the cost of maintenance of earth roads by dragging, but there is no doubt as to the economy of the drag, either in its first cost or in its operation. A dollar or two will buy the material for the most elaborate form of drag, while under ordinary conditions one man and team can operate it successfully. The method of making a drag is most simple, and full directions may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture or from Mr. Eden, who has a

Vincent Astor is convalescent and his marriage to Helen Dinsmore Huntington will in all probability take place on April 30, the date originally set. This was the substance of a statement given out by Mrs. Robert P. Huntington. The wedding will be much simpler than originally intended.

Gov. McCreary spoke at Princeton Monday and was visited by Judge Bunk Gardner, of Mayfield, and Commonwealth's Attorney R. L. Smith, of Clinton, each accompanied by a delegation of supporters, to press his claims for appointment to the vacancy in the First Judicial district cause by the death of Circuit Judge Bugg.

The Lord Chamberlain has at last consented to license the stage version of Milton's "Paradise Lost" in London. The sole condition imposed was that Adam and Eve should be clothed in such a manner that no one could take exception to their costumes. Eve, under the ruling, will of course not be allowed to appear in 1914 attire.

The House of Representatives, by a vote of 237 to 95, adopted the Shelley mileage amendment by which members of Congress and those dependent on them will receive their actual expenses in going to and from regular sessions instead of twenty cents a mile. It also defeated the bill to increase the salaries of secretaries to Representatives from $1,500 to $1,800 a year.

Major General Leonard Wood, retiring Chief-of-Staff, due to retire yesterday, has been selected to be general in command of the army of the United States should it be sent into Mexico. The choice was made at a conference between Secretary Garrison, Major General Wether- spoon, the new Chief-of-Staff, and General Wood. Pending the beginning of actual warfare he will remain in Washington subject to orders.

A Washington dispatch says a rumor is running through the Capitol that Secretary of State Bryan is to resign within a month, and that Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane is to become Premier of the Wilson Administration. Mr. Bryan, it was said, is to become Director General of the Carnegie Peace Foundation at a salary of $25,000 a year and a retirement pension. It is said Mr. Carnegie was there to arrange for Mr. Bryan's acceptance of the office. The report is not being given much credence.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

FOR FLETCHER'S

TOLD BY THE TRUTHFUL MAN

This is a Story of the Remarkable Effect of Sudden Rains on the Gulf Coast.

"You'd scarcely believe how excessively damp it is along the Gulf coast," said a truthful man with long whiskers, to the editor of the Glasco Sun. "We all use rawhide harness, and a real hot, damp day sure does cause the tugs to stretch amazingly. One day I drove down to the river bottom more than a mile from home, and loaded up three-quarters of a cord of pecan wood.

"Just as I had finished loading a shower came up and the water that fell was as hot as the so-called hot coffee in restaurants. Well, I started the mules, and the tugs began to stretch, but the wagon never budged. I drove on home and when I got there the wagon was still down in the bottom and the tugs were stretched out as small as shoestrings.

"What did I do to get the wood home? That's easy. I just unharnessed and threw the gears over a stump in the back yard. Fifteen minutes later the sun shone out, dried up the dampness, and in less than an hour that wagon came creeping up the hill. Yes, sir; that's a fact."

DOMESTIC ANIMAL CENSUS

Figures for the United States Are Somewhat Surprising to Man Who Hasn't Thought.

The United States is much more densely populated with domestic animals than is generally realized. In these days of famine prices for eggs it is interesting to learn that there are 280,345,133 chickens in the country, or an average of nearly three fowls for every man, woman and child. They are valued at $154,663,220, or 52 cents apiece. Only chickens over three months old are included in this report.

The number of horses, as might be supposed, has not increased as rapidly as the population, but despite the almost universal automobiles there are still nearly 20,000,000 horses in the United States, which are valued at more than $2,000,000,000.

It is rather surprising to find that there are more than 60,000,000 cattle, valued at more than $1,500,000,000. The number of sheep has declined in the past decade, but there are still more than 50,000,000, which represent a wealth of $232,000,000. Not the least important item of national wealth is the swine, which number about 60,000,000, and whose value is almost exactly $400,000,000.

WON HIS WAY WITH FISTS

Australian "Fighting Parson" Correctly Gauged Men to Whom He Desired to Minister.

The novel spectacle of preceding church service with boxing bouts was witnessed recently in Australia.

The pugilistic parson was the Rev. H. Linton of St. James, Wilcannia, N. S. W., and a correspondent gives the following account of the encounter:

"Mr. Linton struck a (shearing) shed in full swing, and being anxious to get into close touch with the men made inquiries as to the prospects of holding a service. An old hand who was consulted gave it as his opinion, if he made the attempt he would probably meet with a mixed reception. However, nothing daunted, he soon made his plan of campaign, and lost no time in putting it into execution.

"He put in an appearance at the mess one evening, and after a few fraternal remarks introduced a set of boxing gloves. This was a bold frontal attack, and risky. The shed champion was thunderstruck. He from the start of shearing freely had offered to fight run or jump with any man in the crowd, with no result, and here was a simple parson storming his stronghold. Preliminaries were soon settled and a willing go was entered upon, which soon left the one-time champion deeply thinking.

"After several other bouts the first part of the entertainment closed and the more serious one was entered upon—a religious service. All hands, full of admiration for the parson, rolled up and a hearty exercise was the result, the first ever held there. We would not be surprised if he were elected chaplain to the West Darling shearers."

TREE BEARS HANDS.

A curious tree is growing in Los Angeles, Cal., the seed of which was brought from Mexico. In general appearance it resembles an English walnut. The leaves are much like those of a buttonwood, but very much larger. The most marked peculiarity of the tree is its blossoms, from which it has been named the "hand tree." The flower is an inch and a half in diameter, with short russet sepals and long reddish-lined petals. The fat scarlet pistils protruded an inch beyond. They are so joined to resemble a hand, with fingernails like the claws of a Chinese grandee. The resemblance to a hand is striking.

PLACING HIS AFFECTION

By HARRISON SMITH.

Johnny Hawley took his second cup of tea, absent-mindedly put in two lumps of sugar, which he never used, and stirred it thoughtfully. The fire crackled on the wide hearth, and never had he seen Philippa look so altogether adorable as she did that blowy March afternoon.

"As I was saying," said Johnny, with a sidelong glance at Philippa and trying to hold his voice to its usual conversational tone, "I've been very, very wretched of late."

"Have you?" said she. "I think I know what's the matter," she hazarded.

"Do you?" asked Johnny. "Let's hear your diagnosis of the unfortunate case."

"You're in love," said she, very demurely, and Johnny in his joy of the moment started so violently that he all but upset his tea.

"Say, you're some little old mind reader, Philippa," he declared. "How'd you guess it?"

"It's too easy," said she with a little sigh. "Anyone who knows you at all could guess that about you of late, Johnny."

"That's dead right," said Johnny. "Anybody could have guessed it, couldn't they?"

"No reason why not," said she. "I can even tell whom you are in love with."

"Go ahead," said Johnny. "Don't let any false modesty stand in your way."

Philippa said very calmly: "The reason you are wretched is because of the person you're so much in love with, Johnny, and that person is—yourself."

A dainty Sevres cup was smashed and a goodly quantity of perfectly good tea was slopped about promiscuously as Johnny, who had half risen from his chair, sat down in it again with rather too much suddenness.

"You're terribly in love with yourself, Johnny," she went on calmly. "You think only of your own pleasure and comfort. You have altogether too much money for your own good. It's made you dreadfully selfish."

"You mean I should do things?" he asked weakly, aware from her pause that something was expected of him conversationally.

"Exactly." "Well, I'll give away more of it," said he. "What's your pet charity now, Philippa? Tell me and I'll write out a regular old check for it—one that will really make your eyes pop out."

"Oh, Johnny Hawley!" she chided, "always a point of view like that! You think just giving money, when you have oodles of it—more than you can possibly spend yourself—means being unselfish. You wouldn't miss the money. You'd forget ten minutes after you'd given it. You'd never feel the difference. That will never cure your wretchedness. You've got to give something of yourself—something personal, something really worth while, before ever you'll feel any better."

"There's Ned Hawkins," she said musingly at length. "Ned's going an awful pace. Money won't help him any, because he has too much of it already. But personal work will. Ned's young and foolish and a bit of personal work with him might make a man out of him."

"Oh, that silly fool?" he questioned. "The quicker his kind go to the devil, the better for all concerned. I couldn't do anything for him."

"It would be disagreeable, wouldn't it?" she said mockingly. "I forgot you couldn't possibly do anything the least bit distasteful to you."

"What'd you think of me if I did succeed in making Ned pull up a bit?" he asked.

"Your reward would be in the feeling you had of having done something really worth while for once—in being really unselfish, for I realize it's going to be a particularly disagreeable task straightening Ned out."

Johnny took his hat and stick, said good-by, apologized for the cup he had so awkwardly broken, and went down to the club. He sat there for a long time staring out of the big front window, thinking deeply and turning many things over in his mind. Then he saw Ned Hawkins coming up the steps, none too steadily—with two of his closest and most disreputable cronies. Johnnie got out of his chair, squared his shoulders, rolled up his eyes as if he said he knew he was acting the fool but should persist in that course, none the less, and went into the hall where Ned Hawkins was having a most unseemly and undignified verbal quarrel with the angry hall-man.

Eight months later Johnny Hawley was again sitting before that wide and cozy hearth with a cup of tea in his hands. Philippa was lovelier than ever.

"I've heard all about it—what you've done for Ned," said she. "You had a perfectly dreadful time, didn't you, and it was simply awful some of the things he did and said about you? But you stuck it out and you made a man of him. It was splendid. You must feel awfully good about it."

"I don't," said Johnny. "You're not still wretched?"

"I most certainly am."

"Well, what's the matter now?"

"I'm not cured. I'm still in love."

"With yourself?"

"Both of them! You know I'm not cured never was. You know who it is I'm in love with. It's you."

"Oh, yes, I've known that all along," she said.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

This is a time of great events, and you will want the news accurately and promptly. All the countries of the world steadily draw closer together, and the telegraph wires bring the happenings of every one. No other newspaper has a service equal to that of The World and it relates everything fully and promptly.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and any body can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that it to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD's regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

Dancing Once Part of Worship. We read in the "Book of the Dead," which contains the papyrus of Egypt's most ancient seers and scholars, that dancing was a part of Egyptian worship. In fact, the hieroglyphics themselves, denoting adoration, triumph after battle, gloom at the death of a monarch or a high priest, were often figures of men or women in dancing postures.

CAYCE-QUARLES

Pretty Home Wedding Of a Popular Couple Of The Younger Set.

Mr. Kenneth O. Cayce and Miss Katherine Quarles were united in marriage at the home of Mrs. F. M. Quarles Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock in the presence of a large number of friends. Rev. C. M. Thompson, of the First Baptist church, performed the rites, using a beautiful ring ceremony. The parlor was tastefully and appropriately decorated with flowers and evergreens and Mendelshon's wedding march was rendered by Mrs. Jamie Garrott, of Pembroke. The bride was preceded by little Francis Cary, of Clarksville, the ring-bearer, and her sister, Miss Eva Quarles, was bridesmaid. There were no other attendants.

The bride and groom met at the altar and in a beautiful ceremony plighted their vows. The bride was attired in a wedding gown and marriage veil but donned a blue traveling dress and after a period of congratulations, during which the big wedding cake was cut, Mr. and Mrs. Cayce came to town and took the 5:35 Southbound train for a brief wedding trip. They will be at home next week with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Cayce, until Mr. Cayce's new house in Hopper Court is completed.

In cutting the bride's cake, Miss Powers, of Nashville, got the ring; Miss Bertha Cayce the thimble and Gordon Cayce the darning needle.

The young couple were the recipients of many beautiful and useful wedding presents. Mr. Cayce is associated in business with the F. A. Yost Co., of which his father is president, and is a popular and rising young business man. His pretty bride is a daughter of the late F. M. Quarles and is a charming and most lovable girl.

NO TIME FOR REAL THINKING

Hustle of the Age Precludes Possibility of Patient Thought and Elaborate Expression.

Our modern philosophical systems seem to have got down to mere bunches of maxims. Such is the increasing national tendency to hurry in everything, philosophy included, that we have not the time for elaborate systems. The nervous restlessness which pervades business makes it practically impossible for us to study in detail that to which great minds in other years have given patient thought and elaborate expression. So we think, write and discuss in tabloid, compacting into a few pithy sentences all the rhetoric, the wisdom, the philosophy of the ages. It is fortunate that Plato, Socrates and Francis Bacon lived in a time when books were few. Had they lived today the "Republic," the "Dialogues" and the "Novum Organum" would probably have been written in concentrated paragraphs, strongly epigrammatic, in order to find readers who could spare the time from the copious accounts of the ball games, the mass of cheap fiction, or the latest sensational divorce. Nowadays the majority of the people avoid "solid" literature or anything that calls for reflection. They want to be amused, not edified; they prefer gratification of the senses to the search for wisdom and truth. Does the fault rest with a superficial educational system, or is it the inevitable tendency of an age given over to material things, and which has no taste for those higher intellectual pursuits that ennoble character? It is a fine question to determine to what extent our newspapers and periodical output is responsible for the change.—The Christian Herald

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

BEST QUALITY OF ROMANCE

Admixture of Common Sense That Makes It, We Are Pleased to Think, Typically American.

There is much of the sound old quality of Americanism in the current local report describing how a young man in a humble position won the hand of a young woman whose parents were financially independent. When the youth, occupying a modest post in a business where promotions are slow, fell in love with the young woman whom he afterward won, he went straight to her father and asked for permission to court the daughter.

The father offered the familiar response, "Whoever marries my daughter must be in a position to support her." But he undertook a little experiment, looking to the possible furthering of the young man's suit. He took the youth into his employ and observed him closely. Incidentally, he paid him higher wages than he had been receiving in his former position.

The gratifying result was that the young fellow acquitted himself like a man, manifesting such virtues as industry, application and perseverance. He made good—and he's going to get the girl.

Not a thrilling romantic story, of course. But we like it a great deal better than we should have done if it had dealt with arrogance and stubbornness and an elopement. It's merely a simple chronicle dealing with the excellent deportment of two men—yet it's the sort of thing, we believe, that makes for the betterment of the race, the endurance of affections and the stability of the home.

IN THE FRENCH ACADEMY.

A celebrated name will disappear this year from the official list of members of the French academy—that of Lamartine. Many persons will, perhaps, be surprised to learn the great man's name has still figured on the list, but it is the custom of the academy to give each member's name with the name of the member he succeeded. Lamartine was succeeded by Emile Olivier in the seventh seat of the institute. Olivier died last year, so on the list for 1914 Lamartine's name will be replaced by that of Olivier and the latter's name by that of his successor, Bergson, who was lately elected a member for the seventh seat.

UNUSUAL.

"Didn't you forget to thank that man for giving you his seat in the car?" "Yes, I did. I get so little practice in accepting such favors I am apt to overlook the little courtesies the deed calls for."

THE BEST.

"You can talk about these new tango dances, but in my opinion there are better." "What are they?" "I think the old-fashioned barn dances were the real thing."

HER BEAUTY WENT WITH IT.

"She isn't the pretty girl she used to be." "Is that so?" "Yes; her father lost all his money speculating."

USING SPLIT LOG DRAG

circular for distribution. The state highway commission and other organizations have plenty of literature in form of bulletins on the subject. W. E. Eden's address is 125 West Monroe street, Chicago.

Some figures have been compiled showing the comparative cheapness of road dragging. A few years ago Prof. W. C. Hoad, of the University of Kansas, assembled figures showing that the cost of maintaining ordinary country roads in Kansas, without a drag, amounted to $42.50 a mile annually. In comparison with this sum consider the following:

The highway commissioner of Maine, reported in the same year that Mr. Hoad's figures were issued that the largest expense for dragging roads in Maine was about $1.50 per mile; the greatest trifle more than $6. The average expense per mile for five and one-half miles was a little less than $3.

When the Chicago and North West

eight miles of highway for a year. The township paid for the making of the drags and hired the men to operate them, and the total expense for the 12 months averaged only $2.40 per mile. The roads were reported to have been like a race track the greater portion of the year. Don't overlook the comparative figures—$2.40 per mile with drag in Iowa, as against $42.50 a mile without the drag in Kansas.

In Ray County a neighborhood of farmers employed one of their number to drag a five mile stretch of road. He was paid at the rate of $3 a day. When the end of the year came and a settlement was made, the cost for the year was found to be only $1.66 per mile. The road, however, was tough clay and better than other roads in the neighborhood.

Prof. Wm Robertson of the Minnesota agricultural station, after a year's experience in dragging a "main road made entirely of gumbo without any sand or gravel, and which during the last year has shown no defects, either by rutting or development of soft places," fixed the cost of the work at not to exceed $5 a mile.

The figures all serve to indicate that the drag is a roadmaker that performs a maximum service at a minimum of cost. At present there are about 2,000,000 miles of dirt roads in the United States, most of which must be maintained by some means more or less inexpensive, and on roads of this class the split-log drag has demonstrated its usefulness to such effect that it is now in use in most of the states and in many foreign countries likewise.

The drag is so constructed that it moves earth toward the center of the roadway, filling up the mudholes and ruts. It does its best work when the soil is moist but not sticky, the earth then moving freely along the face of the slabs. If the road is badly rutted and full of holes it may be well to use the drag once when the ground is slushy, this treatment being particularly applicable before a cold spell in winter just before the railroad investigated the work of the split-log drag at Sac City, Iowa, a few years ago preliminary to the campaign started by that road, it found one township had experimented with the drag on twenty-roadway freeze.

In summer and fall dragging should be done while it is actually raining, for unless the rain is exceptionally heavy and long continued, the water will penetrate the dry roadbed so fast that the surface will be comparatively dry when the drag is used after the rain has stopped, with the result that the road surface will work up in crumps. The nearer it is possible to spread the mud over the road as a mortar, much in the way a mason works mortar with a trowel, the greater is the improvement produced.

Here is the approved method of using the drag as formulated by the Associated Roads Organizations, of Chicago and Cook County:

Make a light drag.
Drive the team at a walk.
Ride on the drag; don't walk.
Don't drag a dry road.
Drag when the road is muddy.
Drag, if possible, immediately before a freeze.

Pegin at one side of the road, returning on the opposite side.

Always drag a little earth toward the center of the road until it is raised ten or twelve inches above the center of the roadway.

Do not attempt to move very much material at one time with a drag.

If the drag cuts in too much shorten the hitch.

The amount of earth the drag will carry can be regulated by the driver, according as he stands near the cutting end or far away from it.

When the roads are first dragged after a very muddy spell vehicles should drive, if possible, on one side until the road has had a chance to freeze or partly dry out. The exercise of a little care on the part of the users of the road will do as much as the drag toward getting a smoother road. The law provides a penalty for any one who wilfully ruts or cuts up a dragged road.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Emotions Expressed in Dancing.
In the Vedas of the Hindus, some of which date back 6,000 years before Christ, there is steady reference to dancing as an expression of triumph, worship, and even the deepest grief. It is the same in the Zendavestas of the Persians. Dancing with cymbals and tambourines, with bells tied to their ankles and wrists or around their waists, was an art that the priestesses in the temples of the

THIS THE AGE OF WONDERS

Much Has Been Done, Yet Fountain of Youth, Long Sought for, is Undiscovered.

We are fortunate in that we live in an age when the incurable is being made curable and the fatal made harmless, the Philadelphia Press observes. Diseases that by our forefathers would have been held infallible tickets for the long journey are now invested with no such terrors. We prevent yellow fever and malaria by exterminating two kinds of mosquitoes. We vaccinate for smallpox, long a terror to the nations, and see the death rate fall steadily. Appendicitis we operate for with calm assurance of recovery. Tumors are excised, and radium cures cancer. The wonders of surgery follow one another fast. Nowadays a surgeon will carve you a patient at any point of anatomy, take out a vital organ, look at it, clean it, and put it back, ticking away as merrily as ever. The last wonder is of course that performed before the biologists here when every drop of blood was taken from a living body and purified, while the veins were filled with a salt solution, and then returned, clarified. This was "tried on the dog;" doubtless it will soon be on humans. But the world still waits for something even indefatigable science has not solved. Today, as of old, the fountain of youth is eagerly sought. Not a year has been added to the span of human life. With the aid of surgery and medicine we may live out the allotted time, yet no way has been devised of adding anything to that mortal span.

WOOD MADE FIREPROOF.

It is said that the London Metropolitan railway has fireproofed all its rolling stock without the elimination of woodwork and the structural and decorative advantages which woodwork affords. The method of fire proofing is the same as that now being employed by the admiralty. This consists of the impregnation of the pores and fibers of the wood with chemicals such as render the wood absolutely flameproof. Wood so treated is said to lose none of its natural characteristics and has no harmful effect upon glues, nails, varnishes or metal fixings with which it may be brought in contact.

YOU DON'T KNOW YOUR VOICE

Scientific Explanation of Why One Does Not Hear It as Others Do.

You have long known that you do not see yourself as others see you. Do you know that you don't hear yourself as others hear you? asks the Boston Post.

Laroy, a French scientist, declares a person does not really know his own voice. He had several persons, all intimate friends, record a few sentences on a phonograph together. When the records were reproduced the persons could more easily recognize the voices of their friends than their own.

This is due, Laroy says, to the difference in the quality of the tone. When a man speaks he hears his own voice, not only through the air as others do, but it passes through the lungs, throat and mouth. The sound thus has a different timbre from that conducted to the ear only by the air.

Another way to prove this is to put the end of a wooden rod between the teeth and pronounce a vowel continually. Have another person put the other end of the rod between his teeth and stop up his ears. He will find the sound stronger than when it reached him through the air. The tone is also of different quality.

PURPOSE IN LIFE'S TRIALS

Wisdom of Tribulations Not Revealed, but Thinker Believes Them Part of Purifying Process.

No man in the world ever attempted to injure another without being injured in return, some way, somehow, sometime. "Recompense to no man evil for evil," said the lowly Nazarene. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Personal magnetism—spiritual, may cost sorrow, suffering and tears, but back of it all is a purpose and when all life's lesson shall have been learned that purpose may be revealed to us, and through our tears we may see the wisdom of the trials and tribulations through which we were obliged to pass, and our spiritual magnetism shall partake of the purifying process, as we add other pages to the chapters of our book in this little span of life.—Edward B. Warman in Nautilus.

INDIGESTION AND AUTHORSHIP.

H. G. Wells is among those who believe that indigestion is an aid to successful authorship. Some years ago, when called upon to answer the question, "What is the first step toward literary production?" Mr. Wells replied: "It is imperative, if you wish to write with any power or freshness at all, that you should utterly ruin your digestion." Victor Hugo appears to have done his best to bring on indigestion. Edmond Lockroy states in his memoirs that it was Hugo's invariable custom when served with crayfish to devour the head, claws and tail; and to swallow the skin and pips whenever he ate an orange.

World's Laxative Mineral Water.

Well Recently Bored 137 Feet Deep, Situated
One Mile West of Hopkinsville.

ANALYSIS OF WATER.

By Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Lexington, Ky:
One gallon contains 323.6 grains, of solid matter (5.53 grams per liter,) composed mainly of sodium chloride (common salt,) sodium sulphate (Glauber's salt,) with small amount of calcium sulphur, calcium carbonate, magnesium carbonate and sodium sulphide. Hydrogen sulphide free and combined is present to the extent of 5.0 grains per gallon. There are traces of sodium iodide and sodium bromide, iron, silica, potassium and lithium salts. There is a salt-sulphur water and would doubtless have a laxative effect in addition to the other properties of a sulphur water.

PIANO REQUIRES CARE

INSTRUMENT EXCEEDINGLY QUICK TO RESENT NEGLECT.

Subject in a Degree to the Extremes of Atmosphere—Lime in the Interior Will Prevent Rusting of the Wires.

The piano is often neglected by the otherwise careful housewife, for the simple reason that her attention is seldom, if ever, called to its care. It seems to some if the tuner arrives periodically and the instrument is carefully dusted that is all there is to the care of the piano.

However, the piano is a very delicate instrument, as all musicians know, and requires very watchful care. The first consideration is the position of the piano. Often the only object in placing a piano is to have the best light fall on the music rack. But the piano should not be placed too near the outer wall, the fireplace or radiator, as it is subject to the influences of the atmosphere.

Extreme heat and extreme cold are very harmful to the piano. If one wishes to have a musical instrument in the best of condition and to keep it so, an even temperature should be maintained in the room where it stands. If there is too much moisture in the atmosphere the wires become rusty, if there is too much heat the musical adjustment will be injured as well as the wood in the case.

The rusting of the wires can be prevented by sprinkling them with lime or by placing a bag of unslacked lime in the interior to absorb the moisture.

When the atmosphere becomes too dry it is well to have a plant in the room that requires plenty of water. A jar of water kept in the room helps by evaporation. Heavy articles should never be placed on the top of the piano nor should music or books be piled there, either.

The keys should be wiped daily, when the piano is dusted, with a cloth dampened with alcohol. If this plan is followed there is less likelihood of their turning yellow. If the keys are soiled a cloth dipped in whiting and rubbed with alcohol will be found excellent for cleaning them. When the keys have become very yellow and need to be bleached try the following: Make a paste of unslacked lime and bran water. It should be applied and allowed to dry slightly. It should then be rubbed off with a cloth, and magnesia powder applied to the keys until dry. In a few minutes the keys can be polished to a high luster.

Then care should be taken to prevent moths getting into the piano. Prevention is always worth while. In this case the carpet under the piano should be sprinkled with camphor and ground moth balls placed on the floor underneath. A bag of camphor balls should be suspended from a nail driven in the outside of the piano.

If moths do get into the piano make a mixture of benzoline and turpentine, using seven parts of benzoline to one of turpentine and add a drop or two of lavender water. Use a small scent spray or an old syringe to squirt this into the piano.

Dealers in pianos say that the best way, as well as the most satisfactory way to clean a piano is to simply wash it in luke warm water, drying each part briskly and rubbing it thoroughly just after it is washed. A chamol skin can be used to advantage here. This method leaves the polish absolutely uninjured.

Coquilles of Fish.

Free a pint of cold boiled fish from skin and bones and break into small pieces with a silver fork. Put the shredded fish into a saucepan with half a cup of boiling water, a tablespoonful of thick cream, a teaspoonful of butter rolled in flour, and salt and pepper to taste. Stir over the fire until the mixture is thoroughly heated, then fill shells or ramekins, cover with crumbs and bits of butter and set in the oven until nicely browned.

Creole Fish.

Into a saucepan put a heaping tablespoon of butter; melt, but do not let it brown. Add half an onion cut fine. Let simmer a minute, then add one cup of tomatoes (canned), three sprigs of parsley chopped fine, and one tablespoon of flour; let cook 15 minutes. Take a small bass or other small fish, cut it into two-inch pieces; see that all the bones are out and add the fish to the soup. Let all simmer for about 20 minutes. Serve. Prepare at break fast time and reheated.

Chicken a la McDonald.

One cup of cold cooked chicken cut in strips, three cold boiled potatoes cut in one-third inch slices, one truffle cut in strips, three tablespoonfuls of butter, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one and one-half cupfuls of scalded milk, salt, pepper. Make a sauce of butter, flour and milk. Add the chicken, potatoes and truffle and as soon as heated add seasoning.

Over-Salted Food.

If too much salt has been added to the food in cooking, a little sugar will neutralize it, or, if the dish has been made too sweet, a little salt will counteract that. This applies to meats, vegetables, soups, and practically all dishes.

Ham Balls for Tea.

Mix half a cupful of bread crumbs with two well-beaten eggs. Chop fine some bits of cold boiled ham. Mix all together, make into balls or cakes and fry.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Well Known Traveling Man,
Formerly of This City,
Dies Suddenly of Heart Trouble.

Theo. Welder, a well known traveling man for a New York house, with headquarters in Louisville, died suddenly at an early hour yesterday morning at Hotel Latham. Mr. Welder arrived here from Madisonville Tuesday afternoon, accompanied by Mr. S. A. Hipp, an acquaintance and commercial tourist of New York. Both retired at about ten o'clock, occupying the same room. They left a call for 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Hipp on arising, attempted to awaken his friend, but found him dead. It was evident that he had passed away only a short time before, as his body was still warm. Death from heart trouble was the verdict of the coroner's jury.

Mr. Welder was a bachelor and was about sixty years old. About forty years ago he was a resident of this city and held a position with Philip Lieber who was a merchant here at that time. The body was shipped to Louisville for interment.

Dairyman's Son Run Over By His Father's Wagon.

Central City, Ky., April 21.—The 8-year old son of Mr. St. Clair, a dairyman was run over by his father's wagon, the wheels passing over his neck and breaking it. Mr. St. Clair and children had come to town to deliver milk and it being necessary for the father to take the train on a business trip he turned the wagon over to his two sons, aged 8 and 11 years to take home. Just as they passed Helsley's grocery, on the Greenville road the younger boy tumbled out directly in front of the wheel and was run over.

Mrs. Julia A. Ridgeway, widow of the late Jas. R. Ridgeway, who died in Colorado last winter, has filed a paper in county court relinquishing what was given her under her husband's will, preferring to take dower and distributable share in his estate according to the laws of Kentucky, as if no will had been made.

"I do this," she says, "not because of any dissatisfaction that I have with the bequests of said will, but because of certain circumstances and contingencies have arisen which make it necessary in order to protect my rights as his wife."

Mrs. Ridgeway shortly after the death of her husband, came to this county and is making her home with her father, Mr. L. H. Smithson. It is understood that the prospective birth of a posthumous heir is the contingency referred to.

Hog Cholera Treatment.

Serene as seems the life of the tiller of the soil, a close scrutiny reveals that he, too, has his worries and vexations. The sound of the rain on the roof at night may not mean a balm for the growing crops, but a menace to the young chicks which have not been properly housed. Bright spring days bring seeding time and the hope of a bountiful harvest, and also crows and caterpillars. One of the greatest sources of trouble to the Kentucky farmer, however, is hog cholera. His wheat may escape the weevil, his corn may grow to maturity in spite of the cutworm, his potatoes may survive the bugs, and his neighbors' dogs may agreeably consent to his raising a flock of sheep, but hog cholera is like the "thief in the night."

Much progress has been recently made in this State in the treatment and prevention of hog cholera, and so admirable have been the results of the research at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station during the last three years that Kentucky has been selected as one of the few States in the union in which a Federal investigation will be carried on. Of the results of the treatment by the anti-hog cholera serum which is used at the Kentucky Experiment Station an official report says:

"Herds treated, 923; number of hogs in herds, 52,489.

"Number of hogs sick, 638; number of hogs with high temperatures, 5,766.

"Number of hogs vaccinated 47,673; method: (1) Simultaneous treatment, 451 herds; (2) serum alone, 382 herds.

"Number of herds reported, 226; number of hogs reported, 38,117.

"Number hogs reported lived 34,366—90.2 per cent.; number of hogs reported died, 3,751—9.8 per cent.

"Number herds not reported, 197; number of hogs not reported, 9,556."

It is a compliment to the efficiency of the Experiment Station that Kentucky has been selected as one of the national fields of research and treatment, and with the aid of the Government officials to be sent here the disease should be successfully combated.—Times.

No Damage.

A fire alarm was turned in from Second and Railroad streets Tuesday, but the fire was out when the department responded.

Large Closed Country.

Afghanistan, the buffer state between British India and the Russian possessions in Asia, with an area of about 250,000 square miles and a population of probably about 5,000,000 Mohammedans (no census has ever been taken), is, with the exception of Tibet, the largest closed country in the world.

PREMATURE DISCHARGE

Of Dynamite in Hopkinsville
Stone Co.'s Quarry Fatally Injuries Bob Buckner.

Robert Buckner, col., an employee of the Hopkinsville Stone Quarry Co. was fatally injured in a premature explosion yesterday afternoon. He was preparing shots of dynamite in the quarry when one of the charges exploded too soon, terribly mangleing Buckner.

One leg was shattered, both eyes were blown out and his body was a mass of bruises and cuts. He was given surgical aid, but there is no chance for his recovery, and was expected to survive only a few hours.

Buckner is a middle aged man with no family except one child.

SKULL FRACTURED.

Stranger In Central City Dies
As Result of Clot on Brain.

Central City, Ky., April 22.—W. Ray, a stranger, who had been in town a day, died at the hotel where he was taken in an unconscious condition without being able to tell where he was from nor how long he had been ill. He was found in the park just north of the I. C. R. R. on Monday morning by two men who were passing.

The Coroner's jury discovered that he was suffering from a fractured skull, but the doctor in attendance stated that this might have come as a result of the fall which he suffered at the hotel. The verdict of the jury was: "The man came to his death from a blood clot on the brain and unknown cause." A union card in his pocket showed that he was a brickmason in good standing in Little Rock, Ark., but his home was in Gadsden, Ala.

Brumfield, Wright & Johnson.

About the First Public Library. Thebes, in the time of Rameses II., established and supported the first public library, and the records of the monuments show that its director was a high official named Amen-em-an. He appears also to have been a literary light, and corresponded with Pentatour, who was the popular author of the "best sellers" of his time.

BOSTON BABE.

"Nurse takes such an interest in baby."

"That's good."

"Yes; today she told him all about the binomial theorem."

JUST ABOUT THEN.

"When does the honeymoon end?"

"Well, frequently, like the other moon, it ends after the last quarter is reached."

YOUNG AND FOOLISH.

"Why do you think he is very young; he doesn't look young?"

"He says 'the woman doesn't live who can fool him.'"

VICK'S Croup and SALVE
"JUST RUB IT ON!"

"John" the Favorite.
A French journal has been digging into the soul of the young girl, and asking her what she wants in a husband as to color, age and name. The vast majority of 50,000 reply that they want a dark man of twenty-seven, and his name should be the French equivalent of John. None of your Algerians or Erics for the cautious damsel. None of your Hippolytes or Pauls—mercenary or subversive persons. They want John when it comes to husbands.

Trenton-Elkton Highway.

At a meeting of the promoters and subscribers to the Trenton-Elkton highway leading four and one-half miles from Trenton toward the county seat, steps were taken to begin work at once. Already practically the amount necessary to build the pike is secured. At this meeting a building committee was named, consisting of Justice J. C. Bronaugh, E. F. Camp, John B. Garth, R. L. Adams, G. L. Camp, Norton Garth and T. J. Riley.

Class Banquet.

The annual banquet given by Rev. C. M. Thompson's Bible Class at the First Baptist church Tuesday night was an affair of much interest and great enjoyment. A number of guests were present and after the dinner was over there were speeches by several members of the class, officers of the Sunday School and others.

Need Not Wear Caps.

F. A. Field, manager of the Woolworth ten cent store in Owensboro, issued an order requiring the salesgirls to wear "breakfast caps." Mayor Hickman visited the store and countermanded the order. Ten girls have quit the store complaining of their treatment.

POPULAR CITIZEN

Passes Away After Months Of Affliction.

L. C. Corley, a prominent farmer and much esteemed citizen of the Haley's Mill neighborhood, died last Saturday, after an illness of about four months of tuberculosis. His wife and five children survive. Mr. Corley was thirty years old and a member of the Christian Church. He was also a member of the Woodmen of the World and the Modern Woodmen of America and his burial will take place in the Johnson burying ground Sunday. As a testimonial of the esteem in which Mr. Corley was held about seven hundred people followed the remains to their last resting place.

Merely a Supply City.

The raising of chickens and the production of eggs are things apart to the farmers in the Basel consular district. While Basel is one of the principal supply cities of Europe for poultry and eggs, only a small percentage is actually produced in the Basel district or in Switzerland.

Paducah Nay Fix

Charge of Telephones.

Paducah, Ky., April 21.—In a decision handed down in the District Federal Court here Judge Walter Evans held that while the East Tennessee Telephone Company had the right to string wires, erect poles, etc., all must be under regulation by the city. He also held that the city had the right to make rates.

The case, which is styled city of Paducah against East Tennessee Telephone Company, was recently reversed by the United States Supreme Court after a decision favoring the telephone company had been rendered.

Scrubs Fatten Quickly

You want your pigs to eat as much as possible when you fatten them. Give them a great variety of feed, keep the appetite keen and the digestion in good order, and you will obtain the desired result; especially if you mix with the grain ration a dose of

Bee Dee STOCK MEDICINE

Whets the appetite—Helps digestion.

I put some scrubby-looking hogs in the pen to fatten and gave them Bee Dee STOCK MEDICINE in their feed. I soon had fine, healthy-looking hogs, which netted me over 500 pounds.
